

QUESTIONS

1. How would you answer a non-Christian's charge that the Bible is too full of blood and judgment?
2. How (if at all) would it change your view of God if God didn't punish sin?
3. What makes the judgments described here—horrible as they are—perfectly just?
4. How do you think you should respond differently to worldly events and situations after having studied this chapter?
5. Why do you think the kings, merchants, and sailors are singled out to mourn the great city's fall?
